

Guilford Consulting Launch New Website

21st April 2008

The new and updated Guilford Consulting website is now live on www.guilfordconsulting.co.uk. Noel Guilford, an accountant with more than 25 years experience, has been operating under the name Guilford Consulting since 2002 and has recently employed the services of Greenhouse Marketing to create an updated brand identity and web presence for the company.

Noel said 'My old website served me well but it was time for a change. ' Guilford Consulting is a widely known and well respected brand and the new design brings the company's visual representation in line with it's professional reputation.

Noel intends to update the site regularly and ensure that it is a real resource for people seeking advice and business support in the areas of growth, mergers and acquisitions and the buying and selling of organisations. Regular news articles, written by Noel, on his various areas of expertise, will be available to download and features such as interactive diagnostic quizzes will ensure that the site is a place for people to seek guidance and advice.

Noel went on to say 'I work in a complex area. I have worked with many varied and interesting people and organisations and I continue to do so every day. I want my website to be a place where I can share my experience and help others.'
